Despite deficit Chamber outlook is optimistic

After a year of successful programs and steady membership growth, the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce launched itself into another year Wednesday evening. The occasion was the group's annual meeting held at the Wig-A-Mog Inn with over 140 in attendance.

The optimistic outlook for the coming year and the success of the past summer tourist season seemed to allow most members to ignore the Chamber's financial deficit for the year of $21,941. Coupled with last year's indebtedness, the organization is $30,349 in the hole.

Despite this gloomy financial news, the mood of the crowd was definitely up.

Chamber of Commerce manager Shirley Rapson reported the organization experienced a membership growth of 49%. This announcement drew a round of applause from the audience.

She also reported increased co-operation with other business organizations in the county including the Scenic Highway 35 Association, the Wilberforce Business Association and Haliburton Business Association. The Chamber has also been working with the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association, the Paudash Snowmobile Club and the Haliburton Forest and Wildlife to promote snowmobiling, she said.

In this regard, the Chamber assisted in co-ordinating the visit of the editor of a major snowmobile magazine last winter. An article on the snowmobiling facilities in this area is expected to appear in early December across North America.

Rapson reported a growing interest in lodge-to-lodge skiing on the part of cross-country skiers.

The manager and her staff have been promoting this area at a number of trade shows in Toronto and the northern New York State area as well as at the Ontario tourist information booth located in the Eaton's Centre.

She also reported to the meeting that visits at the information booth located on Highway 35 at Minden were up some 33% with 9044 inquiries being fielded during the past year. 87% of the visitors who stopped at the booth were from Ontario while 11% were visitors from the United States. The most requested information was about accommodation facilities and for a map of the Highlands.

President of the Chamber's Board of directors, Shawn Hagerman told the audience that the organization had accomplished a great deal during the year. "We still have problems, however," he noted, alluding to the deficit.

"We need your support and drive," he told the members. "We've got to get better, the day we stay the same is the day we fall behind." Hagerman noted that the promotional efforts of tourist boards in areas adjacent to our own is increasing. He said the Haliburton effort will have to match these if the area is to retain its share of the tourism market.

Victoria Haliburton MPP, John Eakins, the provincial minister of tourism, was introduced by the county Warden, Harry Davis. Eakins paid tribute to Earl Cooper who was selected the Highlander of the Year. "I am delighted with your selection," Eakins said, "I always felt he would make a good Citizen of the Year."

Eakins noted the contribution that his ministry had made to the growth of tourism in the province. "We have improved highway signage for tourist attractions," he told the audience, and improved highways, making access easier. He noted that the $1.5 million extension of the Haliburton sewer system to the north Lake Kashagawigamog resorts will not only improve the services offered by these facilities but will ensure the continuing good water quality of the area lakes.

The tourism minister then went on to describe the latest government financial program designed to assist tourist operators. Called Destinations East, the program covers all aspects of the tourist trade in eastern Ontario, including this riding, with a combination

Earl Cooper honoured

Kings may come and Kings may go, but the man who leads the parade remains.

The leader of so many Haliburton County "parades", perhaps one of the most recognized individuals in the county, Piper Earl Cooper, was named Highlander of the Year at the annual meeting of the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce.

Surrounded by his family, Earl registered surprise and delight as his name was read out as this year's recipient of the award.

A short time earlier he had led the dinner's head table delegation to their places with a stirring playing of the pipes. Dressed in the Highlands tartan and accompanied by the rhythmic clapping of the audience, Earl once again assumed his customary place at the head of the line of dignitaries. Little did he know that he was counted among those dignitaries he led into the room and not just performing at another of innumerable functions.

As the county piper, an unofficial title that he has earned, Earl Cooper has piped in many a head table. Among the dignitaries to have followed the skirl of his pipes are Ontario Premier William Davis, Lieutenant Governor Pauline Mc-

Gibbon and, during a visit to Lindsay, Canadian Prime Minister John Diefenbaker.

Between these notables, Earl has played at banquets, dinners and celebrations. He has led parades, provided a poignant dirge for the deceased and added to the joy of wedding celebrations.

In addition to his many performances for private functions, Earl is pipe major of the Branch 129 Royal Canadian Legion pipe band. A piper for 40 years, Earl has led his three sons into the art. This past summer, George, Alan and Andrew, joined their father at the head of the Branch 129 pipe band in the Haliburton County Fair parade. It was the first time the four had played together at a public function.

Honoured for his dedication to the Highlands and the continued service to the community, the announcement of Earl's selection as Highlander of the Year drew a standing ovation from the capacity crowd in attendance Wednesday evening.

Help sought for snowmobile trails

Last August, Haliburton County Snowmobile Association trails foreman Tom Prentice estimated it would take four men with machines two months to clear the trails blocked by last summer's tornado - at a cost of approximately $25,000.

The trails have yet to be cleared and Prentice estimates there's less than a month to go before snow storms make the work impossible.

The association requested assistance from the county shortly after the disaster, but, said Warden Harry Davis, "Haliburton just hasn't got that kind of money. We never budgeted for a tornado, so it isn't there."

So the county asked

Victoria-Haliburton MPP John Eakins to see if he could find money in the provincial budget to repair the snowmobile trails. That was two months ago and though the minister has made a number of attempts, the money has still not been found.

"It's the Peterson Trail, one of the main east-west arteries, that suffered the worst damage," said trails foreman Tom Prentice. "Maybe 40 percent of the snowmobile traffic coming into the county uses that trail."

The Peterson Trail, now used almost exclusively by snowmobilers, is an old colonization route running from Ottawa to Georgian Bay. It enters Haliburton

Wolf bounty officer appointed

Anson, Hindon and Minden has a new wolf control officer. Acting bylaw enforcement officer Gerry Poirier was appointed to the post, vacant since the previous bylaw enforcement officer, Dick Schell, resigned from his duties October 10 - at the council meeting on October 28.

For the past ten years Haliburton County has been paying a $25 bounty administered by the townships and municipalities for each wolf killed within its limits. As wolf control officer, Poirier will administer the bounty in Anson, Hindon and Minden.

of grant and loan assistance.

The new program includes seven facets, providing help for marketing, to festivals and special events, for feasibility and planning, locating investment, assistance with capital projects, help for marinas, and assistance with capital projects, help for marinas, and assistance for attractions which would generate travel to an area. Mike Walker, area representative for the Ministry of Tourism and Recreation, assisted Eakins in outlining the various aspects of the plan.

"I am here to ensure this riding shares in these programs," Eakins commented. "These programs are unique and have been designed to assist you." He urged the Chamber members to take advantage of the programs and noted that a seminar outlining the various aspects of Destinations East will be held today (November 5) at PineStone Inn. The seminar starts at 1 p.m.

Before the meeting closed, the members of the Chamber endorsed the slate of candidates for the board of directors as proposed by the nominating committee. Those acclaimed to the board for the coming year were: Shawn Hagerman, who operates his own insurance and investment counselling agency, he will serve another term as president of the Board of Directors; Al Mayo, manager of the Toronto Dominion Bank, Minden; Robert Cairns, operator of Heather Lodge; Bob Jennings, operator of Sandy Lane Resort; Marj Kennedy, operator of Silver Eagle Resort; John Mateer, operator of Hart Lodge; Dante Lacarde, operator of Domaine of Killien; Haddon Gillespie, operator of Lengillan Resort; Joyce Waffle, operator of Bonnie View Inn; Brian Watt, operator of Rip's Sleepy Hollow; Roxanne Casey, operator of Birch Point Lodge; and Elgin Stouffer, real estate salesman, Bowes and Cocks, Minden.

"The bounty is used as a way of keeping the wolf population in check," said Anson, Hindon and Minden Reeve Sinc Nesbitt in an interview. "It ensures that the numbers of deer and fur bearing animals never get too low."

Nesbitt said he is uncertain about the need for the county to pay for dead wolves. "If there is to be bounty, I think it should come out of the pocket of the Ministry of Natural Resources."

Most of the animals are trapped in the winter months, though some are shot by hunters.

About $750 has been paid out to bounty hunters (for 30 wolves) in 1986, county officials say. In an average year bounties are paid on 35 to 40 animals.

The most common wolf species in Haliburton is the brush wolf, or coyote, said Ministry of Natural Resources biologist Wayne Wilson. Though in the northern townships, Wilson added, there are a few timber wolves - maybe 15 or 20.

"I don't think there's a lot of either species in the county, but there's really no way of telling," he said.

Wilson said Wolves could only damage the deer population when it is seriously depleted. Not since the early 70's have stocks been low.

"But ordinarily wolves keep the deer and moose population in good health by weeding out sick and unhealthy animals - because those are the ones they can catch most easily," he explained.

Wilson also pointed out that it would be difficult for bounty hunters to seriously harm the wolf population. "Coyotes are very resilient animals, and that's what we have most of here. And timber wolves are hardly ever seen."

Co-operation helps education effort

Teachers and parents must work together to give schools a strong voice, Linda Mumford, chairman of the Haliburton County Board of Education, told the October 29 Teacher's Federation fall meeting.

As county teachers sat back after a dinner of roast beef and Yorkshire pudding at the Harvest Dining Lounge in Haliburton Village, Mumford urged co-operation. "Teachers should come to school board meetings," she said. "Tell us about new programs in the classroom and new ideas you have."

She said school boards must also do their part to keep dialogue open.

Twisted trails

north of Harcourt on the east and runs through Haliburton Village and Carnarvon before passing into Muskoka.

The June 16 tornado left a path of shattered trees and buildings that ran for a good part of its length along the Peterson Trail.

"The tornado went right along it," said Prentice. "In some places it's 15 feet deep in tree trunks."

Acting president of the HCSA, Leroy Lichty, said snowmobilers are responsible for a large chunk of the county's tourist dollar in the winter. "It's well into the millions," he said.

Lichty said if the trails are not cleared in time for winter, far fewer snowmobilers will come to Haliburton county. "It's beyond our reach to pay for the work ourselves, so I really don't know what we're going to do."

Though Eakins could not be reached for comment, his aide, Guy Skipworth, said there is still hope that the province might help the snowmobile association.

"The problem is," said Skipworth, "you generally apply for aid under a certain program - and we haven't yet come across any programs applying specifically to tornado damaged snowmobile trails."

He said that so far Eakins has gone to his own ministry - Tourism and Recreation - and to the Ministry of Transportation and Communication for assistance. "We're thinking about going to the Ministry of Natural Resources next."

Meanwhile, with only a month left to go before work on the trails becomes impossible, time is running out for the snowmobilers. "If we started now with eight men and machines, we might be able to do it," said Prentice. "But if we don't get the aid a large number of county trails will be inaccessible this winter."

"Boards should be frank and honest with educators," she said.

Mumford also spoke of the need for schools to keep abreast of the times. Today's students will be working in a society dominated by the computer, she said. To be productive citizens they will have to be able to work with computers and to perform functions that will be in demand in the next century, Mumford went on.

She said that chief among those functions will be the gathering and sorting of information.

Some Toronto schools have already begun to prepare for the future, she added, by putting computers in their libraries and changing the name of these facilities to "resource centre" as a way of emphasizing their function as a storage and retrieval space for information.

County children deserve to be exposed to computers just as much as their city counterparts, Mumford said, and everyone must work together if this is going to happen.

She also stressed the rights of disabled children. "There should be equal access for all children - those in wheelchairs and otherwise disabled - to programs and facilities available to normal children."

Mumford emphasised in closing that, "teachers and school boards must act now to get new programs for students. It's the only way we're going to change with the times."

B.I.A. backs awareness week

This is National Crime Prevention Week in Canada, and in co-operation with the Ministry of the Solicitor General, the Minden Business Improvement Area is assisting in increasing the awareness of this annual observance.

"We have tried to bring the need for increased vigilance on the part of all citizens in combatting crime to everyone's attention," BIA chairman John Pentney commented. The BIA's contribution includes the distribution of posters throughout the Minden area and the placing of booklets entitled "Good Neighbours" in locations where individuals can pick them up. The booklets describe how citizens can help make their community a less inviting place for criminals.

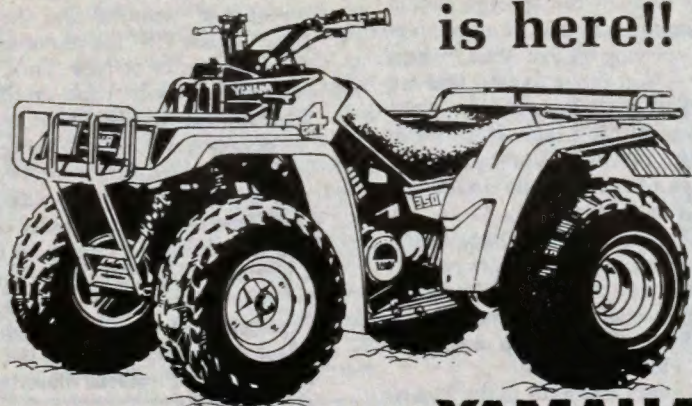

"As members of the business community, we encourage all citizens to take an active part in various protection programs," Pentney commented. "Being a part of a Neighbourhood Watch group, ensuring that children are aware of the streetproofing rules, and simply showing concern for the property of others in our community is a good way to deter criminals," Pentney pointed out.

"If we all do our share, it will make a big difference for the community as a whole," he added.

Copies of the booklet "Good Neighbours" are available from the OPP office in Minden, at the IGA and Valu-mart stores in Minden or by writing: 340 Laurier Avenue West, Ottawa, Ontario K1A 0P8. The booklet is free.

National Crime Prevention Week runs from November 2 to 8.

Chamber needs members' support

While there were no questions asked during the annual meeting, the growing deficit of the Haliburton County Chamber of Commerce should be a matter of some concern to all members and those outside the organization whose taxes, through an annual county grant, go to support its operation. As those in attendance learned Wednesday evening, the deficit for the year was almost $22,000. Coupled with a deficit from the previous year of $8,400, the Chamber's indebtedness now exceeds $30,000.

The red ink is one of the few negative aspects of this past year. Under manager Shirley Rapson and the present board, the Chamber has re-established the equilibrium needed for such an organization to function. Emphasis has moved away from internal and external squabbling to the organization's primary function, promoting the Highlands. The manager has ventured out to spread the word about the county, attending at travel shows in Toronto and the northern United States. Travel "influencers", those who book travel tours or who write about travel, have been brought here to see first-hand what the Haliburton Highlands has to offer.

This activity, coupled with a buoyant summer season in most sectors gives ample season for optimism.

The Chamber cannot, however, continue to do its job if the deficit is allowed to increase. The county council has made a three year commitment of $64,000 per year to the Chamber's effort (plus other special one-time grants). In contrast the amount collected in membership dues during the past year was only $18,300. With a membership of 350, that represents an average contribution of just over $50.

Acknowledging that some method of accommodating smaller businesses in the membership fee structure is necessary, it is still surprising how little each member on average contributes to this organization. While the financial support of the county is still on line, the board of directors should move now to increase the fees to more accurately reflect the return the Chamber brings to the county and to ensure the organization does not have its usefulness smothered in a pool of red ink.

Reaching for a quarter

- by Arthur Black -

This may amaze and confound a lot of readers, but the unpleasant truth is — I will probably never become fabulously wealthy just from penning this column once a week. I know...I know...you figured that since the publisher and editor tool around town in gun metal grey Rolls royces, sporting pinkie rings with diamonds the size of crabapples and generally carrying on like Arab Princes of petroleum — you just assumed that we lackeys who toil in the front lines must perforce be well-off too, right? Hah. There are many disillusion in the grubby game of journalism and the generosity of management is the first one.

But I don't mind. I take solace in the knowledge that, even though I get paid in bus tokens and Salvation Arm luncheon vouchers, I still live as if I had more money than Henry Ford, S.S. Kresge and Lord Thompson of Fleet combined.

Mind you, that's not hard to do. Henry Ford was a notorious skinflint. Mister Kresge made a fortune with his continent-wide department store chain but he still rode the streetcar to work, carrying his lunch in a brown paper bag. And Roy Thomson? Well, I hesitate to call him a tightwad, but old Roy certainly knew the value of a buck. Or a quarter, come to that. Newspaper photographers used to place a 25-cent piece on the sidewalk just as the media magnate was getting out of his limousine. Then they would snap photos of one of Canada's richest men, stooping to scoop two bits off the ground.

Lord Thomson knew that people would see his picture in the paper the next day and that they would cluck-cluck and titch-titch and shake their heads in disbelief at the sight of a multi-millionaire in hot pursuit of spare change. He couldn't care less. Roy Thomson loved money unabashedly and never made a secret of it.

But, acquisitive and penny-pinching as he was, Roy Thomson could never be mistaken for a true tightwad. He spent too much money buying newspapers and television stations to qualify. Nope, if you want to experience authentic miserdom in all its crabbed wretchedness, you have to take a look at the life of Henrietta Howland Green, a.k.a. Hetty Green, the Witch of Wall Street.

Hetty was a New Yorker, born in 1835 — herself the daughter of a legendary miser. When he died, he left Hetty his hoard of more than a million dollars. Hetty was still young and beautiful and she could easily have "Jackie O'd" the rest of her life away in the best circles of New York high society, interspersed with trips to the Continent. Instead, she settled down to make more money. Lots of it. She invested in railways and slum apartments. She studied stocks and bonds. When Hetty's financial career really started cooking it was estimated that she made enough money in two hours to cover her living expenses for an entire year.

Not that Hetty Green's annual expenditures were all that high. As a matter of fact there were winos in the Bowery who enjoyed more opulent lifestyles than Hetty Green.

She dressed in second-hand clothes, stayed in fleabag hotels and took her meals in the cheapest greasy spoons she could find — except when she dined at home, that is. Hetty Green's standard "home-cooked" meal was a bowl of oatmeal — cold, because it costs money to heat things up. She was obsessed with the idea of saving every penny possible. Once, she got into an argument with a druggist over the cost of some medicine. The druggist wanted ten cents. Hetty claimed it was only worth a nickel. The druggist rolled his eyes and said the other five cents was for the bottle it came in. Hetty Green marched six blocks to her room, fetched her own empty bottle, trudged back to the drugstore and plonked the bottle on the counter. Along with a nickel.

Experts estimate that while Hetty was haggling over five cents at the drug store, she was worth something in the neighbourhood of $100 million dollars — and this was in the late 1800's, remember, when a buck was a buck. In 1867, the United States had purchased all of Alaska from the Russians for a little over $7 million. Hetty Green could

letters

Editor's note: The following letter has been sent to the council of the Municipality of Snowdon.

Dear Sirs:

Last year, when the pile of salt and sand was placed at the end of the road on which we live, we registered our objection both orally and in writing. The points we made had to do with the potential adverse environmental effects and the possibility of contamination of our wells.

In addition, we considered that we might well have been consulted before the pile was put in our vicinity, and we were not impressed with the response we got when we appeared at the council meeting. The possibility of alternative ways of meeting the need for a salt/sand supply were not considered with any seriousness.

However, the pile was there, and there was little more we could do except make our feelings known and hope for the best. We were glad when the winter season was over and eventually the pile was cleared up in the late spring. We hoped that having made clear our objections there would be no repetition, or at the very least we would be consulted before the pile was put there again.

We were surprised and dismayed last week to find that the salt/sand pile has been put in exactly the same position again, just as though there had been no complaint.

It should not be necessary for us to wait for our water to be contaminated before notice is taken of our fears.

In these days when thoughtful people are aware of environmental threats, it is disturbing to find that our council seems to have no understanding of this matter.

The repetition of last year's action by the council shows a total lack of reasonable consideration by Reeve Vick and the other members of the council.

The one season presence of the pile has already killed off three of the fine old Norway Spruce which stood near the old railway yard site, and formed a fine setting for the end of the road and the approach to the cemetery. It seems reasonable to believe that the council's action has now doomed the rest of this group of trees.

We think that such thoughtlessness should be exposed, and although I am just one concerned individual, I know that I express the views of local people who know what has happened.

Gelert.

Bob McCausland: waiting for that call

One day in the very near future the telephone is going to ring and Bob McCausland of Gooderham is going to drop what he is doing. If everything goes according to schedule, three hours after the call comes, he should be going through the preliminary routine that will eventually lead to the replacement of his heart.

Other than for a little shortness of breath as he walks into his office at the Gooderham Schwandt Lumber store, there is little indication that Bob McCausland has a serious heart problem. He looks well and fit, he stays active, his attitude is positive and upbeat.

"I'm psyched up for it," he says with a broad grin, "I'm ready to go, I feel positive about the operation." The words are reflected in a flash of determination in his eyes.

Such was not always the case however. Several months ago when doctors in Toronto told him the only recourse was to perform a heart transplant operation, he was stunned, defensive and had difficulty facing the reality of the diagnosis. "The day they gave me the news is lost in a blur. I barely remember leaving the hospital or the drive home," he recounts. A policeman pulled him over for speeding on Highway 503 as he approached Gooderham. That's his only memory of the trip from Toronto several months ago.

Bob has been a member of the Glamorgan Township council since 1977. He served his apprenticeship as councillor, deputy reeve and is the municipality's reeve, a position he has held since 1982. Looking at the give and take of county politics, he considered the possibility of making a run for the Warden's chair in the annual selection this December.

Bob had suffered a severe heart attack in January 1983. The coronary did a lot of damage and he was forced to take several weeks off to recuperate. Knowing the additional responsibility of the Warden's chair would add to his stress load, he decided to undergo a complete physical during the summer to ensure he could handle the extra load.

It was during this physical that the immediacy of his problem came to light. The doctors examining him reported that his heart had undergone a second trauma, one that he was not aware of, but one that had further damaged the already weakened organ.

"The doctors didn't pull

any punches," Bob recalls, "there was no beating around the bush." He was given a timetable for his present heart, one year, maybe two with an active lifestyle, and then possibly a while longer as a bed patient.

Drugs could ease the labour of the damaged heart, but the organ could not be repaired. The only option was to have it replaced.

Routine operation

It was less than 20 years ago that the first human heart transplant took place. At the time the operation was heralded as a modern medical miracle and the procedure continues to inspire the awe of those inside and outside the medical profession. More common now, stories of the transplants of other organs seem to dominate the news, the operation has become almost routine.

But for those faced with only one alternative, the prospect of having one's heart removed and other put in its place, it can be traumatic, to say the least.

Once his need for a new heart had been identified, the transplant team at Toronto Western Hospital quickly became well known personalities for Bob. In an effort to ensure he would be in the best health possible for the operation, he was given a complete physical, including dental work and a visit with a psychiatrist. The aim was to ensure that any infection currently in his body was eliminated so as not to pose a threat when his body's defenses are reduced to ease the introduction of the new heart following the operation.

The visit with the psychiatrist probed his attitude after having received the news and to create, as much as possible, a positive outlook on what is in store.

Bob has praise for the medical staff at the hospital. They readily respond to his questions and keep him informed of his prognosis. Each month he visits the facility to update his records.

The doctors at the hospital advised Bob to remain active as long as he could. He continues to put in a full day at the lumber yard, although he admits he's relieved that the rush of the summer season is behind him. As well he has maintained his civic responsibilities attending most township and county council and committee meetings. "I'm sure if I was sitting at home all day, I would be stewing about what is going to happen," he commented. "By staying active, I can help keep my mind from dwelling on the operation."

The reduced capacity of his heart has meant that Bob has had to cut back on sports activities and he finds he tires more quickly than he used to. He accepts this limitation, but looks forward to the day, when, with a new heart, he can regain his active routine.

Willing to talk

Since he first learned the operation was a necessity, Bob has come to grips with that eventuality. He is willing, even eager, to talk about his condition and the operation that is yet to come. Some of that inner strength is the result of the information provided by the doctors in Toronto. They have frankly answered all his questions, explaining the points of greatest concern and the potential for success. He explains that the chances of survival are 90 to 95%, with rejection of the donated organ being the biggest hurdle to overcome.

He also attributes his optimistic outlook to the support and encouragement of his family, friends and council. "There are a lot of people behind me. That really helps," he says.

have bought 14 Alaskas and still have been rich.

One thing about Hetty though, she was very democratic — she spread her stinginess around. When her teenage son dislocated his knee, Hetty declined to waste money on a doctor. Days later, when the boy's condition worsened, Hetty dressed herself in pauper's rags and took him down to the charity ward of the hospital. By this time the leg was gangrenous and had to be amputated.

Hetty Green's eventual demise could have been written for Hollywood — She died at the age of 81 — of apoplexy, brought on by a heated argument over the economy of drinking skimmed milk.

And her son? That's the delicious part. The boy who had lost his leg due to his mother's cheapness took one look at his fabulous inheritance and decided to spend it. He bought yachts. And racehorses. And chateaus and limousines and fine wines and everything that money could buy. The money Hetty Green had spent a lifetime accumulating was dispensed by her son at the rate of $3 million a year.

Not that he forgot his mother — oh my, no. As a matter of fact he kept a memento to Mommy dearest right by his bedside.

It's just as well that Hetty Green had passed away earlier. She'd have had a heart attack for sure if she'd seen her son's diamond-studded chamberpot.

Earl Cooper is the 1986 Highlander of the Year. He was awarded this special honour at the annual Chamber of Commerce dinner and meeting on October 29.

Earl is a lifelong resident of this county, he lives in West Guilford in the very house in which he was born. He has come to symbolize the true meaning of being a Highlander. We would like to wish him and his family every happiness over the coming year.

Bob McCausland

Bob also wants to talk frankly about his condition because he feels that individuals faced with the same prospect may be helped by knowing there are others undergoing the same worries. He notes there are even people who seem to be unwilling to discuss the operation. They refuse to carry on a conversation or simply walk away.

Of course, a man in his position is eager to encourage fellow citizens to consider donating their organs for transplant if they should be available. Bob doesn't approach the subject like a crusade, however, he points out that many individuals haven't seriously considered what it would mean to make their organs available to others. "How many have signed the form on the back of their driver's licence authorizing the use of organs for transplant purposes?" he asks. Bob thinks there are probably not many.

It's been a month now since Bob McCausland's name has been added to the North American-wide list of recipients in need of a new heart. Through a network of hospitals in Canada and the United States, doctors are aware of his requirement, with the necessary matching medical information.

Past experience has shown that patients remain on the list for several months at the most before their need is met. Bob speculates that by the end of the year, the operation will have been done, and he'll be a man with a new heart.

In the meantime, the sound of the phone has special significance for Bob McCausland, as he waits for the call that will change his life.

The annual meeting was not only successful but it was a sell out. Bill Payne did an excellent job of being the M.C. for the evening and keeping the proceedings moving along at a steady pace.

The election of the new board occurred. The president again for the upcoming year and the last year according to our constitution is myself. John Mateer of Hart Lodge is the new vice president. The management committee will consist of myself, John Mateer, Haddon Gillespie of Len Gillinn Bed and Breakfast, Elgin Stouffer and Ken Langdon. Ken will also double as the finance chairman, while John Mateer will also serve as chairman of the marketing committee. Others on the board are Robert Cairns from Heather Lodge, Bob Jennings from Sandy Lane Resort, Marj Kennedy from Silver Eagle, Dante Larcade from Domain of Killien, Joyce Waffle from Bonnie View Inn, Brian Watts from Rip's Sleepy Hollow and Roxanne Casey from Birchpoint Lodge.

The auditor's report was given by Roger Dart, in it he pointed out that there is a $30,000 deficit as of the end of March, 1986. This is a fairly serious problem and the new board will begin to deal with it immediately this November.

Finally, we were honoured to have John Eakins come and speak to us at the meeting. He and his assistant Mike Walker, spoke at length on the new and exciting Destinations East program. John gave me some of the material and I have been reading it and it looks like it is tailored especially to help a tourist region, such as ourselves.

There will be a workshop at PineStone on November 5. I would sincerely recommend that all in the tourist business attend this workshop and find out more about this program. We will be able to enlarge upon significant aspects of it in the upcoming weeks.

Curbing T.V.'s impact

Children who watch a lot of violent TV may turn into violent adults, Victoria Street School principal Ruth Gorrie told a meeting of the Archie Stouffer Home and School Association in Minden Thursday evening.

In a talk called Values, Morals, and the Influence of TV, Gorrie said that parents, because they have the final say on what television programs are watched at home, can determine what sort of adults their children will grow up to be.

"The best single predictor of whether a 19 year-old kid will be violent," Gorrie said, "is the kind of television he watched when he was eight."

She blamed TV for a number of other recent changes in the behaviour of children as well.

"Kid's today aren't joining Boy Scouts and Brownies like they used to," Gorrie said. "They're forming rock groups instead." She said rock videos are particularly responsible for encouraging children away from healthy activities with their mindless images of sex and violence.

She pointed out that TV also encourages illiteracy.

"Programs like Sesame Street just teach kids to love television," Gorrie said. "It's the same with all TV - it gets kids to look at pictures instead of reading books."

Gorrie argued that our society is dominated by the electric plug and particularly by television. If we let ourselves be controlled by our electric appliances, she said, we will grow up in an unhealthy society. "But if parents use their influence over the plug intelligently, this doesn't have to be so," Gorrie said.

"Children are only at school a small part of the day," she concluded. "They watch TV when they're at home so it's you, the parents, who have control over what they watch. So let them watch what you want - not what they want."

Federation of Ontario Naturalists

by Mike Singleton

The Ontario Government has committed itself to "untaxing nature". It's an important step, which will give a boost to natural area protection, and to landowners acting to protect wetlands and biologically unique sites.

The commitment was but a few sentences, almost-buried in a speech by Premier David Peterson recently. But their importance was not missed - either by the audience, or by the Federation of Ontario Naturalists, which has been pressing for the change.

For years, Ontario's property taxation structure has failed to provide incentive to landowners protecting natural areas in the public interest. More than that, the structure has provided a powerful disincentive, encouraging some landowners to destroy sites.

At present, property taxation is based upon a series of assessment categories - including agricultural, commercial, residential and industrial categories - assessed at different rates. There is no category for natural area, and all categories are narrowly defined, except residential. The result is that private landowners and even con-

Council briefs

Anson, Hindon and Minden Council met on October 28 and discussed the following items.

- Acting by law enforcement officer Gerry Poirier was appointed to the Planning Advisory Committee. Poirier was also appointed to the post of wolf control officer.

- Brian Sisson was made chairman of the 1987 ride for Sight, the event - next year's will be Minden's third as host - takes place in June.

- Roads Superintendent Clayton Cameron, who has been praised on a number of occasions for the work he's done, was given permanent job status. Cameron began working for the municipality at the beginning of the summer and has been on probationary status until now.

- Council agreed to foot the bill for the cost of public skating at the Minden Arena on New Year's Eve Day.

- Council protested Bell Canada's directory listings policy. While the company gives separate listings in its own directory to the various districts in the county, it throws all county numbers together under one heading - Haliburton Highlands - in the public telephone directory. Council agreed the practice is confusing.

- Council agreed to support the Minden Kinsmen Club's request to hold a public festival in the Community Centre during the annual Winter Carnival on January 30, 31 and February 1.

- Council agreed to pay the rental costs of the Community Centre auditorium and rink over the Winter Carnival.

- Council decided not to advertise in the 1987 issue of the Central Ontario Travel Association's Travel Guide. It was agreed there are cheaper and more efficient ways of attracting tourists to the municipality.

- Council signed a lease with the federal government for rental of the Gull River wharf beside the bridge in the Village of Minden.

- Council accepted the offer of Totten Sims Hubicki Associates for pre-engineering services on the Bobcaygeon Road at the price of $4,850. The bill will be paid after January 1, 1987.

- Council signed back an offer to purchase the municipality's lot on the Highland Gate Estates. A purchase price $500 higher than that offered was presented to a potential buyer.

Money raised through the sale of the lot will go toward the paving of a road leading through the development.

Redmen hockey squad in nine team league

High school hockey gets underway officially this coming Wednesday when the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School Redmen meet the team from Kenner Secondary School in Peterborough. The game is scheduled for 2 p.m. at the Haliburton Arena.

The possibility of icing a high school team has been kicked around for five years, according to HHSS Physical Education department head Gary Brohman. With increased interest shown by former NHL player Walt McKechnie, who now lives in the Haliburton area, the team has become a reality this season. McKechnie will be the team's coach.

After a meeting between the members of the Minor Hockey Associations of Minden and Haliburton, the school's Physical Education Department and the school board, it was decided to proceed with the entry for this year. The team has been accepted into the nine school league which includes five teams from Peterborough, and one each from Lakefield, Fenelon Falls, Campbellford and Haliburton.

Brohman described the team as a Varsity squad with players from all grade levels eligible to play. He pointed out that the senior students are likely to dominate the team's roster, but that already some Bantam age players have made a favourable impression on the coach and will be a part of the team.

The teacher said it would be important to encourage the younger players as they would form a nucleus for future teams.

Brohman noted that in six practises, the team has attracted 20 - 26 players, enough to ensure a strong entry. He said he expects the team to provide an excellent brand of hockey, comparable to that seen at Junior C or D level.

Noting that a Juvenile team is not being iced in Minden this year, Brohman commented, "The idea was not to replace Minor Hockey. In other rural communities, high school hockey has not hurt Minor Hockey. We encourage the players to play both."

Attempts to attract enough players to form a Juvenile team in Minden appear to have failed this year as only 6 or 7 players attended the initial practices. It was also pointed out that even if the high school team was not operating this season, there wouldn't be enough players to form a Juvenile team.

While the Redmen will open with a special game next Wednesday afternoon, classes have been cancelled to give students an opportunity to cheer on the team, the remainder of the season's games will be played Wednesday evenings at 7:15 p.m. Four games have been slated for Haliburton while three will be played in the Minden arena.

Admission to the opening game will cost $2, with $3 being the admission charge for the evening matches. Seasons tickets at $15 for seven home games will be available from high school students.

The schedule below outlines the Redmen hockey season.

Outdoors

servations authorities are assessed residential tax rates on marshes, wild escarpment cliffs, endangered species habitat and an array of other sites. Not surprisingly, authorities and organizations have become hesitant to buy or even accept gifts of land, fearing their ability to meet tax costs. Some landowners whose property category has recently been reassigned have had 10-fold tax jumps.

In addition, lands in agriculture receive a 50% tax rebate (which is a sound move, strongly supported by the agricultural community.) Natural lands don't. So, landowners have a powerful incentive to convert marshes, bogs and other critical habitats into even-marginal agricultural uses.

The decision to correct these imbalances comes at a critical time, as many municipalities are contemplating a complete updating of their assessment base used for tax purposes.

There are several different mechanisms between which decisions have yet to be made.

One involves a straight 50% tax rebate, like that for agricultural and managed forest lands. This would at least overcome the incentive to convert properties with tremendous value to society (but little economic return to the landowner) into other marginal uses.

A much more creative approach would be the creation of an additional assessment category - to be used only for sites of great biological importance. This category could be assessed lower taxes, reflective of the landowner's contribution to society. It could even be 'married' with a commitment to manage the site for its biological values. And that would provide a (preferable) alternative to government attempting to buy every important site under threat.

THE ROYAL CANADIAN LEGION

The Significance of War Memorials

OUR SILENT REMINDER

At a recent Remembrance Day service I stood alone amidst the crowd. I had nothing to do with the wars. I simply didn't understand why we went through the motions of a service every year to remind ourselves of the horrors of war, violence and death.

As I wondered, my eyes caught sight of an old man. He wore a beret and on his chest was pinned a bright red poppy. As the band played "O Canada", his eyes welled with tears. Yet he sat erect with his hand elevated in a salute and proudly sang along. His body was maimed. He sat propped in his wheelchair and as I looked closer, I saw that he had no legs. He had been in the war and despite his phenomenal handicap, he made his way to the cenotaph to lay a wreath.

I continued to wonder. This man, so obviously destroyed by the horrors of war continued his love of country and took an active part in the service. Then something else caught my eye. An elderly woman next to me clutched a yellowing picture of a handsome young man, and as the bagpipes played on, she smiled with pride and said to me as she tenderly caressed the frame, "You know, he died for freedom for you and me".

The service was over, and soon I was left standing alone in front of the monument. As I read the names of those people who died in the war, the words of that elderly woman kept running through my mind, "...freedom...for you and me..." I continually envisioned the maimed old man singing "O Canada" and I finally realized why I attended that Remembrance Day service. Those brave men and women of days long past fought for me. They fought to preserve a way of life for their children and their children's children. They gave their lives for freedom. I realized that the memorial services were not to immortalize the suffering and hardship of war, but to instill in the hearts of all men and women the pride and bravery of our ancestors, and to help us prevent the tragedy of war from occurring again.

I finally understood that the world lay in our hands and that by having memorial services we would learn to protect it from evil and love it like those brave men and women loved it...for all time.

GOOD NEWS

Your CANADA PENSION PLAN is changing for the better.

As of January 1, 1987.

Increased disability benefits If you qualify for disability benefits, your monthly payment will now be significantly increased. For example, the maximum disability pension in 1987 will increase from $487 to more than $635 per month.

As well, anyone entering or returning to the work force will have disability coverage after contributing in 2 of the last 3 years, in which contributions could have been made.

Additional benefits for dependent children In the past, dependent children were limited to one flat-rate benefit, even if both parents had paid into the Plan and died or became disabled.

Should the same happen now, your children would be entitled to double benefits.

Improved 'Combined' benefits If you are entitled to a combination of survivor and disability benefits, the maximum monthly amount you could receive will now be greater.

As for combined survivor and retirement benefits, these will now be more generously awarded to those who qualify.

Survivor benefits continue on remarriage If you receive survivor benefits, they will now continue even if you remarry.

If you remarried and had your survivor benefit discontinued, you can have your benefit reinstated.

Splitting pension credits If your marriage ends in divorce, each spouse will be entitled to one half the "pension credits" you earned together. After January 1, 1987, the credits can also be divided if your marriage or common-law relationship ends in separation.

Sharing your pension When you and your spouse receive your CPP retirement pensions, the benefits you've both earned during your life together can be shared if either of you makes this request.

A wider choice of retirement options After January 1st, you can begin receiving your CPP pension as early as age 60. You could qualify even if you are not fully retired.

If you begin your pension before age 65, your benefits will be less because you will have contributed less and will get the benefits for a longer period of time.

Or, if you choose not to start your pension until after age 65, (up to age 70), your monthly benefits will be greater.

Your pension would normally be payable the month after your 65th birthday. For each month between that date and when your pension begins, your benefit will be adjusted by 0.5%. This adjustment will apply for as long as you receive the benefit.

Financing a better tomorrow New financing arrangements will make and keep your Plan more secure than ever.

Right now you and your employer each contribute 1.8% of your earnings up to a maximum amount. Each year until 1991, the contribution rate will rise by 0.2% and from there until 2011 by 0.15%. If you make the maximum contribution, you will pay about $26 more in 1987.

Assessing child care options

by Faith Aggett

Child care is often a dilemma for parents. Placing their children in the hands of someone else involves as much trust on the parents' part as it does on the child's. So much seems to be at stake - their views on child rearing, discipline, diet, not to mention the emotional strain and sense of guilt if "Johnny" should make strange. And yet, once found, that special parent substitute can add enrichment to the whole family.

When trying to find the best care available for your child, ask cost, location, hours, ages and number of other children in care. Go and visit the prospective caregiver. You will need to give the home provider general information about your child and any special needs he/she requires.

Talk about the activities that your child particularly enjoys. Ask the caregiver about herself. How long she has provided child care.

Observe the children at play. There should be plenty of space for the children to play and rest. Is the home kept child safe? Are all poisonous, medicinal items and firearms kept out of reach? Are smoke detectors, fire extinguishers and first aid kits installed? Are fire drills routine? Are animals updated with their vaccines?

What type of program is provided for the children? Does it include crafts, storytime, music, outdoor play as well as indoor play?

Is there constant supervision both indoors and out? Is there enough equipment for the number of children and is it geared to the age group being cared for? What provision is made for a sick child? Find out about excursions to the library, park etc.

Communication is vital whatever child care program your child is involved in. Parents and staff enter a partnership and share the best interests of the child. Parents should find staff equally approachable and helpful should any concerns about their child or the program arise. And, of course, a bit of praise, when due, goes a long way!

At present, there are no public day care centres open in our area. In the past, child care has been arranged through neighbours and friends. Yet with the growing number of women in the work force, many of the private caregivers were being overloaded. By law, the number of pre-school children allowed in the home setting is five, including any of the provider's own pre-school children. For each child over that limit, the provider can be severely fined.

CHACE saw a need for a licenced, supervised system. Licenced and non-licenced programs should provide a carrying and stimulating environment that will act as an extension of the home. Licencing does ensure that the basic standards of health, safety and staff-child ratios are met.

In the end, if you feel satisfied and are left with a good impression after your visit - go for it! Often first impressions are lasting ones. Next week, what cost child care?

Hi Kids!!

Here is another puzzle for you with a word list. Look in the diagram of letters for the words given in the list. Find them by reading up, down, forward, backward and diagonally. They are all in a straight line and do not skip letters. Circle the words in the diagram and cross it off in the list.

It's as easy as that. Have fun!

A key to promotion

Joel Levis
County Librarian

Has this happened to you? You are serving on a very important community organization - promoting the uses of the common, everyday common widget - and you finally begin to wonder if you are wasting your time.

You have dedicated a lot of time and energy to making the widget the great contribution to society that you know should be and you have been completely won over by it but somehow, there are as many as there were before and the use just doesn't seem to be going up. A real problem, just like the writer's block. Sooner or later the group decides that they should advertise and get the message out into the open for the unconverted.

their own. "It won't work" they say. "We tried something like this before - it didn't work then and it won't work now". The clincher: "we don't have the money."

Enter Impact, a new publication recently added to the collection of the County Library. Back in the late seventies, two public-minded individuals heard all of these arguments and they decided to find out if it were true or not. A survey was conducted, an on-the-cheap but well organized publicity programme was thought out and put into effect. Systems were put into place to see make measurement of the techniques possible and the results were just tremendous.

Of course, we haven't said that it is about libraries and their promotion and we haven't said that the study took place in Saskatchewan but neither of that matters. Ask for "Impact" by Karen Labuik and Pat Cavill through your local branch of the Haliburton County Public Library. Answers are always available and in vogue at the library.

Branch 129

by Gerald Irish

This year's Poppy Campaign is in full swing. So far the results have been great. Comrade Irv Chambers has organized his team of volunteers to make sure all areas are covered.

Saturday November 8 is the official poppy day and the Legion - sponsored cadets will join Branch 129 legionnaires in a total blitz of Haliburton. When a cadet calls at your door, be generous in your response. The funds generated from the annual poppy campaign help many veterans when they are in need.

A very generous act happened this past Saturday. A gentleman from Toronto purchased ten dollars worth of 50-50 draw tickets and when his name was drawn as the winner, he donated his winnings of $38 to the poppy campaign. I would like to thank our visitor on behalf of all Branch 129 members.

The Hallowe'en Costume Party was a great success. Jim Tice manager of the branch, had the club room beautifully decorated. The music provided for dancing by Backwoods was fantastic and the costumes were unbelievable. The prize for the best costume went to Janet Tice. The most original costume prize was won by Ken Fieldhouse and the best couple prize went to Murray Harvey and Violet Maughan. Everyone who attended had a great time.

***

Plan now to attend the Hunters' Ball this Friday night. Bucks have to pay admission. Does are admitted free.

***

The general meeting will be held this Thursday night at 8 p.m.

As sure as someone suggests a promotional programme, the prophets of gloom begin to come into

Townships of Anson,
Hindon and Minden

CARD OF THANKS

On behalf of my wife, Margaret Reng, I thank all friends and acquaintances for their kind messages of sympathy. Husband and family. 11A

We wish to thank Mrs. Ann Barke for all her help with Carol and Philip's wedding and to Don for giving her the 31st off to help us set up. Special thanks also to Tom and Melanie Moffat and the good folks of the Stanhope Fire Department for their help with the bar, and the parties that helped give these kids a super start. To Patti and Michelle that stepped in at the last moment to help in the kitchen - super job girls. Jeannette and John for the hours of cleaning afterward - Many thanks to all of you. Jack and Mary Lawr

We would like to thank everyone for the cards and gifts and a special thanks to the ladies who helped with the buffet. Your thoughtful mess made our wedding even more special. Thanks again. Earl and Debbie Bull

Now that round one is over, my heartfelt thanks to my friends and neighbours for their thoughtfulness and caring while I was in hospital and on arrival home. Love you all. Jane Graham

CARD OF THANKS

We especially thank the staff of Hyland Crest for the considerate care given to our Mother, Kirsten Monk for her thoughtful efficient handling of the funeral, and the Rev. John Spenceley for his consoling message. To all we are extremely grateful. Sincerely, The Cox Family
